Warm up with a good book during the Adult Winter Reading program

Stay warm this winter when you join in Timberland Regional Library's 14th annual Adult Winter Reading program, running from Monday, January 3 through Tuesday, March 15. The program offers the chance to win prizes while reading this winter.

For each five books (print, audio or online) finished during the program period, complete a form and turn it in at a Timberland library by March 15. When prizes are drawn the following week, those who entered may win an overnight resort getaway or one of ten book bags filled with comforting treats and literary adventures. Local Timberland libraries will award additional prizes. Businesses and Friends of the Library groups are donating all of the prizes.

Overnight stays are provided by the Phoenix Inn Suites in Olympia, Shelburne Inn in Seaview, Ocean Crest Resort in Moclips, Lake Quinalt Lodge in the Olympic National Forest and Lochaerie Resort on Lake Quinalt's north shore.

For ideas on finding books you'll enjoy check out the library system's searchable online reader's advisory resources on the TRL website at www.TRL.org. For starters, go to the "Library Collection" tab and click on "Great Reads" for booklists, new items, downloadable materials and much more. NoveList offers suggestions for fiction reading and Readers' Advisor Online provides information about fiction and nonfiction titles. These two databases will guide people to the gems most likely to make one's inner bookworm glow. Remember to ask TRL's personal reading advisors, the local Timberland librarians, for leads to your next great read.

Adult Winter Reading participants must be 18 or older and have a current Timberland library card. A brochure with complete rules, entry forms and prize lists will be available at all Timberland libraries the last week of December.
