

June 6, 2011

“How does your garden grow?”
Get info from the experts

The WSU Lewis County Master Gardeners are holding plant clinics at three area Timberland libraries this summer to help you make your home garden successful. You can bring your problem plants, questions, and gardening dilemmas to the experts. The Lewis County Master Gardeners will be on hand at the following locations on the dates and times listed:

Winlock Timberland Library, (360) 785-3461

10 a.m. – 3 p.m., second Saturdays of the month through September

June 11, July 9, August 13, September 10

Vernetta Smith Chehalis Timberland Library, (360) 748-3301

10 a.m. – 2 p.m., third Saturdays of the month through August

June 18, July 16, August 20

Mountain View Timberland Library, (360) 497-2665

10 a.m. – 2 p.m., fourth Saturday of the month through September

June 25, July 23, August 27, September 24

Master gardeners are volunteers trained by the Washington State University (WSU) Extension to help with advice on growing plants, insect identification and managing disease problems. For more information about the Master Gardeners program, visit them on the Internet at <http://county.wsu.edu/lewis/gardening/mg/Pages/default.aspx> or go to www.TRL.org. For more details about the library plant clinics, please contact the libraries.